

Week-Long Research Methodology Workshop Begins at Khangchendzonga State University, Sikkim

A week-long Research Methodology Workshop on Languages and Literature commenced today at Khangchendzonga State University, Sikkim. The event was inaugurated by Hon'ble Vice-Chancellor Prof. (Dr.) Ashis Sharma, with Prof. Kabita Lama and Dr. Samar Sinha as resource persons.

In his inaugural address, Prof. Sharma emphasized the university's vision to become a research hub, highlighting the importance of local research areas.

The first technical session, led by Prof. Kabita Lama from Sikkim University, covered key aspects of research methodology, including methods, language, and ethics. The second session, conducted by Dr. Samar Sinha, focused on research philosophy and the ethical responsibilities of researchers and supervisors.

The inaugural day, February 24, 2025, concluded with a vote of thanks by Dr. Suchan Pradhan, Convenor and Head of the Department of Nepali. The workshop, attended by faculty and students from five departments, will continue for one week, featuring various research-focused discussions with various Resource Persons.
